The re-election of Councilman Cardwell as Chairman of the East Orange City Council for the fifth consecutive time, is a well-deserved tribute to the popular representative from the First Ward. Mr. Cardwell has surprised even his friends by the easy way in which he has discharged the duties of presiding officer. He has been prompt in attendance, rapid in dispatching business, and fair and impartial in his rulings. He has a dry wit which is irresistible, is a most pleasant companion, and good humor is apt to prevail in any company of which he is one.

Surprised Mr. Garlock.

Henry Deignan, a toolmaker of New York, employed in Glen Ridge, surprised Mr. Garlock, the newsdealer, Wednesday by walking into his store on Glenwood avenue and handing him a $5 gold piece. Deignan explained that he had received it in change from Mr. Garlock for a penny. The latter remembered having given the coin to some one by mistake. Mr. Deignan declared that he did not want anything that did not belong to him, and, remembering that Mr. Garlock had given him a number of bright pennies, he concluded that the gold coin was of them.

Dr. Long's Lecture.

Many people in the large audience that heard and enjoyed the lecture given by the Rev. Dr. Wm. J. Long in the First Presbyterian Church Monday night were doubtless surprised to learn that much of the supposed knowledge of animal life was of an erroneous character. Dr. Long's theories and Dr. Long's facts supported by stories fitted well together and were delightfully interesting, both as to the novelty of the views advanced and the romantic character of the practical illustrations. Dr. Long's subject was animal life and death. The substance of his lecture, he said, had been gathered during his play hours. His excursions into the field of the naturalist were not in the line of work, but of play. It was his vacation entertainment. He avoided the paths followed by the scientists and told interesting and entertaining stories of his observations among fishes, fowls and beasts. He injected a psychological vein into his talk that suggested a new line of thought at variance with the accepted views with regard to animal instincts.

Many actions on the part of animated nature outside of mankind that are commonly attributed to instinct Mr. Long maintained were the result of training. He also regarded telepathy as a force in accounting for the actions of animals, particularly such actions as appear to establish a communicative force. Mr. Long related several surprising achievements on the part of birds, particularly in the surgical line. The story of the cunning bear and the foolish turkey were equal to Æsop's best, and the little girl's adventure with the bears was as startling and sensational as anything a veteran hunter and trapper could reach in the line of adventure.

Borough Firemen's Demands.

Headed by Harry P. Nichols, a committee appeared before the Glen Ridge Borough Council Monday night as representatives of Lincoln Hook and Ladder Company No. 1 and Glen Ridge Hose Company, and made a strong plea for better facilities for fighting fires. Owing to the lack of necessary equipment, Mr. Nichols said, the department was now powerless to oppose a large blaze, as was shown by the recent destruction of Councilman George C. White's mansion in Ridgewood avenue.

Mr. Nichols asked that two horses be purchased, one for the hose company and one for the truck, and that drivers be employed to care for them. The committee also asked that a new and modern hose wagon be purchased.

Other speeches along the same line were made by Chief Engineer W. E. Smith and Assemblyman H. L. Johnstone. The matter was referred to the fire committee, and the latter will make a report next Monday night.

It is probable that the request of the firemen will be heeded and steps taken to better the department at once. The citizens of Glen Ridge are back of the firemen in their demands.
